Businesses must do more when it comes to data protection

In today's high threat environment, companies must be prepared for the likelihood that they will experience a breach or data loss event in the future. Damage related to cybercrime is projected to hit $6 trillion annually by 2021.

As data grows exponentially, so does the number of breaches and threats from internal and external sources. Are you prepared?

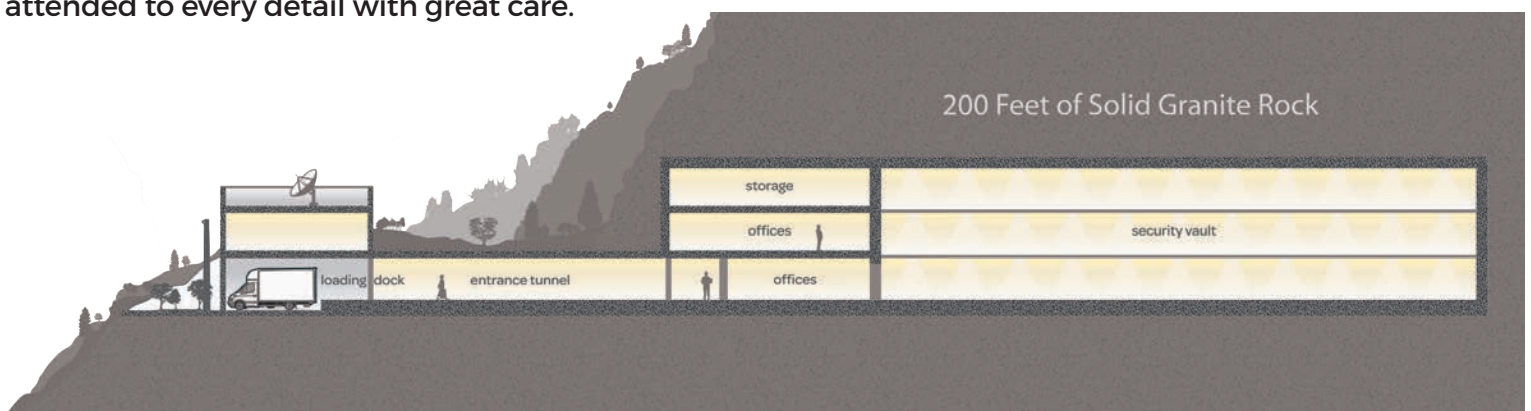

Security breaches have increased by 67% over a 5 year period

Into the Granite Mountain

When it comes to disaster preparedness and continuity of operations, the formidable granite mountain that houses the Perpetual Storage, Inc. (PSI) facility is more than a highly innovative storage solution for our clients' mission critical data; it's a rare and naturally perfect repository.

The facility was built to exceed specifications of the Department of Defense (DoD) and American National Standard Institute (ANSI) for the protection of vital records. We've attended to every detail with great care.

We are different

Unlike urban facilities or repurposed underground mines, our unique location and security-focused protocol make us one of the most secure facilities in the world.

- Data is safe from nearly all natural and man-made disasters including:
 - Earthquake | Flood
 - Fire | Extreme Weather
- Multiple layers of security
- Redundant and diversely routed systems
- Armed security team
- Protected from an electromagnetic pulse (EMP) attack
- Exceeds DoD and ANSI standards

The world-class security offered by PSI begins with our location which is virtually undetectable from the outside, but that's far from where it ends. We've taken every precaution and left no stone unturned to ensure that your irreplaceable data will remain safe on our watch.

We've adopted a Zero Trust Model and treat every transaction, movement, or iteration of data as suspicious. From physical structure to the networked racks, each component is designed with this in mind.

At Perpetual Storage, we help you take the proactive steps necessary to ensure your data is safe and secure before a breach, outage, or incident occurs. Our portfolio of services and products have been developed to work hand in hand to protect and optimize your organization's data storage strategy.
